Waunakee Public Library

Library Board Meeting

Friday, February 19, 2021

7:45 AM

Meeting via Zoom

- I. Call to order: Jean called the meeting to order at 7:48 AM
- II. Roll Call:
  - A. Roll call: Present: Jean Elvekrog, Annie Ballweg, Kathy Grosskopf, Melissa Hill, Mike Ricker, Cathy Sheffield, Erin Moran, and Erick Plumb.
  - B. Guests: Molly Button
- III. Approval of consent agenda: Erin moved, Cathy S. seconded. Passed.
- IV. Director's Report including Covid-19 update and budget review The library is slowly coming back from an average of 150-175 visitors in January to an average of 225 visitors in February. Circulation numbers are starting to rebound; over 15,000 were checked out in February. Staff are staying safe by wearing KN95 masks and are hoping to be immunized soon. During our stretch of cold weather, chairs were placed around the library to give patrons a place to warm up. Eric would like to keep the socially distanced chairs kept going forward to act as study areas. The awning was installed over the drive-up window to keep the window dry in inclement weather. Brittany began offering "Storytime To-Go Bags" for families. They gave out nearly one hundred in a month and are making another hundred. Both Brittany and Courtney participated in a Web Conference about marketing, reducing barriers to service and library accessibility.

V. Old Business

A. Update on library staff assessment Erick and Caitlin Stene presented the assessment project to all of the Library staff at a meeting on February 12. They are currently working on descriptions for current positions and determining what positions may need to be added. Erick will be contacting local and national libraries to come up with possible organizational structures that they could emulate.

VI. New Business

A. Discuss and take action on proposed Joan M. Giles memorial Molly Button presented the plan for the Joan M. Giles memorial. The plan includes a circular patio, 2 stone benches, 3 English Urns for flowers, a brass plaque and free library. There will also be landscaping work around the patio. There are also options for a walkway from the trail to the patio. The memorial will be set in a beautiful location at a curve in the creek, with a view of the bridge. The free library will be kept up by Molly and have books that hold special meaning for their family, in addition to titles that will keep with the specialness of the memorial. Mike made a motion to accept the proposal. Annie seconded. Passed.

- B. Discuss and take action on 2020 DPI Annual Report Dane County is throwing out the 2020 statistics for calculating reimbursement. Still won't get as much as usual. The reimbursements for 2021 will be off as well. Our number of holdings is back to where it should be. We should have 63,300 and currently have over 65,000. Jean made a motion to accept the Annual Report. Melissa seconded. Passes.
- C. Establish a committee to review library director job description Jean, Cathy, Mike and Annie will be the members of the review committee.
- VII. Adjourn: The meeting was adjourned at 8:44 AM on a motion by Mike, seconded by Jean. Passed.

Library Activity Report Library Director Erick Plumb March 2021

COVID-19 and Library Activity

- As the pandemic eases locally, we are seeing usage of the library rise, both of which are welcome developments. Daily visits are now consistently around 225 per day. Also we are again seeing community members enjoying the warming weather on our patio, on the trail and storywalk, and especially on McWatty Playground again. We will be adding picnic tables near Six Mile Creek in the coming months, plus the addition of the Button-Gilles memorial approved last month. We are again reminded how fortunate we are to have this beautiful site as our home as we approach spring.
- Last month, we made seating available for customers upstairs, in Community Hall, and in the Den. Most people utilizing this service are looking to bring in their own device to work for longer periods of time. These patrons are being directed to use Community Hall and the Den, which has worked well, as it creates a space "apart" for those who may stay a longer time, separate from staff and browsers. Happily, we are seeing full compliance with the mask mandate from these users. Most are extraordinarily grateful to again have a "third-space" to do some work. It is a reminder how necessary our role as a place to go and stay for a while was and is, beyond just being a place to find items on a shelf.

 Earlier this month, PHMDC issued order #14 which further eased pandemic restrictions for gatherings. While nothing truly changes for libraries per se with the new order, the change does reflect the thaw in the overall health landscape with the decline in new cases and the ramping up of vaccinations given. (I've attached a blog post PHMDC released called "Why are We Opening Up When Not Everyone is Vaccinated?" that

- describes their thinking.) In light of this situation, several county libraries are once again planning tentatively to re-open their facilities: Verona, McFarland, and Monona in early April, Madison in mid- to late-April, Middleton in late-April, and Sun Prairie in May. This is great news for library users in Dane County.
- I presented to the staff of the Madison Public Library for nearly an hour alongside Youth Services Manager Brittany Gitzlaff on March 8. We described for the virtually-assembled 120+ MPL staff members about how we have opened safely and have thrived during the pandemic. Madison, like nearly all other Dane County libraries, have had their locations closed for a year. On March 9, our teen librarian Angie Hircock, gave a similar presentation to the staff of the Monona Public Library, giving a live virtual tour of our service areas. Angie is a former Monona employee so her front-lines perspective was well-received, Monona's library director said. It has been a boost to us knowing that what we have done and are doing is being recognized as a positive model by our colleagues.
- On a call on March 11, PHMDC told county library directors to expect that doses of vaccine would be widely available for county library staff by early April. The state Department of Health's announcement of the broadened eligibility for vaccines beginning on March 29 for people with certain pre-existing conditions also leads me to believe that most if not all library employees will have received their first dose by our April meeting. Having all library staff fully vaccinated by summer would allow us to perhaps think about further options to expand services and programming at future Board meetings.
- Eight of our 24 employees have received at least one dose of vaccine as of 3/12/21. Two have received full doses.
- I registered the Library with the county as an eligible organization for vaccine doses for staff based on our front-line services and contact with youth in performing our work. Registration allows our employees to have access to a code that enables them to get in the virtual line for shots at Alliant Energy Center. It is, essentially, a lottery system. However, in the two days since registration as of March 12, three employees have had their names selected and will be getting doses in the coming days. I'm hopeful more of us will be selected as the vaccine supply substantially increases.
- As we wait, I am working on trying to set up a vaccine clinic at the library for our staff plus other Village staff and staff from other area libraries. The Middleton and DeForest libraries have already signed on if we can set something up. Hopefully I will have good news to share at our meeting next week.
- I meant to include this news earlier this winter, but the Library installed N-95 filters in our HVAC system, which are to be changed every three months. Jeff Curwick did a great job tracking these items down, and the filters used in conjunction with our state-of-theart HVAC system has made me feel more confident about having staff and customers in the building again during the winter month. (Pictured you can see the sheer number of filters that we use just for one air handling unit.)

- I want to stress that while the situation is improving, we continue to take the necessary precautions to keep staff and the public safe. We very much know that while we are in the final miles of this marathon, we have not crossed the finish line yet. WPL continues to adhere to the mask mandate and enforce social distance guidelines. Access to the Children's area remains restricted. We continue to sanitize high-touch surfaces regularly. Patrons that wish to sit are located away from other patrons browsing. When groups start to form, we ask them to go outside.
- I presented to the Rotary Club on February 25 alongside Sue McDade, Waunakee's Community Services Director, and Cindy Mosiman, the director of the Waunakee Senior Center. The three of us detailed how each of our departments have handled the challenges of the last year. Going through the past year and laying out what we have done has made me extraordinarily appreciative of our staff, our Board, and our community. Needless to say, 2020 was not what we would have imagined, but we have stills served our community to the best of our abilities. I feel like we are emerging from this crisis as a stronger organization than we were twelve months ago more innovative, more flexible and nimble, and even more dedicated to serving our community than previously. I don't wish to denigrate other communities, but as a librarian, a taxpayer, and a library user myself, I've been so very pleased at how our library has "made it work" while being as safe as we can be, and pulling back when the situation called for us to do so. The amount of "thank yous" we receive from our patron as they come in and use our location should make you proud as a Board.

Youth Services Report by Brittany Gitzlaff

As the bitter cold and snow overtook the month of February, we tried to offer some extra more passive programs that would keep families busy and could be done at their own time. I partnered with Connie Gavinski from the Village Center to offer a Village-wide scavenger hunt called Heart Hunt. Families were very appreciative of something to do that got them out and about and was able to be completely done from their cars. We had 260 kids participate and it will be repeated again in April and June. Winter Reading wrapped up with 84 participants and 70 more Storytime To-Go Bags were given away. We have definitely noticed more families coming in to browse as the number of Take & Make craft bags doubled from last month (223 in February) and the number of Grab Bag requests was cut in half (only 23). I presented alongside Courtney on behalf of the library to the Create Waunakee committee. They were interested in hearing about the types of programs we offer, what future programs we aspire to provide, and ways we may be able to support each other moving forward.

Adult Services Report by Courtney Cosgriff

In February, I hosted my Ales and Tales book club and two programs. Gay, Patti, and I had a meeting on summer programming and Covid updates. I completed the August issue of Horizons. I attended an SCLS adult programmers meeting where we discussed covid changes, make and take kits, and summer ideas. I haven't been able to attend all the Ripple trainings, but I've watched a couple recordings and hope to finish the rest up this month. I met with Kylie and Todd on a collaborative programming initiative for this summer involving showcasing Waunakee businesses.

Why are We Opening Up When Not Everyone is Vaccinated?

Posted on Tuesday, Mar. 9, 2021 at 11:28 am

A common question we've received since releasing our new version of Forward Dane PDF [ (https://publichealthmdc.com/documents/2021-03-02_forward_dane.pdf) and Emergency Order #14 (https://publichealthmdc.com/coronavirus/forward-dane/current-order) is why orders are loosening at this point in the pandemic.

Why orders are changing

We're following the data. The number of cases per day has been stable or trending downward nearly every day since mid-January, almost two months ago. Our case counts are approaching numbers that we last saw in July and August. We're doing more testing than we ever have before, with a percent positivity of less than 1%, so we are not likely to be missing cases. Most promisingly, we have vaccines now, which are a critical tool we didn't have last July or August, and which have already given some form of immunity to more than 1 out of every 5 Dane County residents. To learn about all the other data we're monitoring and how they inform orders, read our new Forward Dane plan PDF [ https://publichealthmdc.com/documents/2021-03-02_forward_dane.pdf).

There's a reason we have prioritizations for vaccines. Health care workers were among the first people to be vaccinated, and nearly 3 out of every 4 Dane County residents age 65 and older have gotten vaccinated already (including people in long term care facilities). When thinking of important outcomes we want to achieve—protecting hospitals and preventing hospitalizations and deaths—we've already done a lot of work to achieve those outcomes through vaccines. Hospital staff are now much better able to avoid getting sick, as are people age 65 and older (who have accounted for 88% of all deaths in Dane County). People hospitalized with COVID and cases linked to long term care facilities are at the lowest levels we've seen in six months.

We're doing better than a lot of the country. The number of cases per day in the United States was the highest ever in early January. In Wisconsin and in Dane County, the highest level of case activity occurred in mid-November and has been mostly declining since then. Dane County's current 7-day average daily rate of cases/100,000 people is 12.1 (8.4 excluding UW students), while the U.S. as a whole is 17.4. Wisconsin's is 10.5, which is the 7th lowest out of all 50 states. As we've learned throughout the past year, there isn't a one-size-fits-all approach to responding to the pandemic. We're doing what makes epidemiological sense for our local situation. If our situation changes, we are watching closely to ensure health care capacity is maintained, and we are prepared to tighten restrictions if necessary.

We've already made a lot of vaccination progress. For many people, it may feel like vaccination progress is barely creeping along. But the reality is we've given at least one dose of vaccine to nearly 75% of people age 65 and older in Dane County, and more than 20% of people overall. Think of it this way—we're maybe a quarter of the way or more to herd immunity already. And with the Johnson & Johnson vaccine approval, we are going to be able to very quickly ramp up our vaccination rate, so we will see immunity accelerate.

But I'm still terrified!

It makes sense that loosening restrictions may feel anxiety-inducing to many. After all, since a year ago last March, we've been told that social contact is risky, and that we should stay home. For a year, we have associated gatherings and increasing capacity with more risk. With the introduction of vaccines, we know the things that have always kept us healthy (like masks and distancing) are still important, but we also may start introducing more activities as more people are vaccinated. The shifting of our comfort with risks, and the mental math we all do to decide that, can be an uncomfortable transition.

What we do know is this:

The riskiness of activities is decreasing. The more vaccines are in arms, the more COVID-19 is prevented from spreading, and the less risky activities become.

We're monitoring for variants and increasing community risk. Many people have additional concerns about COVID-19 variants. We are also concerned about variants and are monitoring closely for effects of variants on Dane County (such as increasing case counts). Even though variants have been identified in Dane County, vaccination rates are increasing, which helps negate the impact of variants, and so far we have not seen evidence of variants increasing case transmission. We are encouraged by the relatively low levels of COVID-19 in our community and the increasing rate of vaccination, and continue to watch the data closely for any signs of trouble.

We're turning down the dial, not flipping a switch. Vaccines work, even when we aren't at herd immunity. In fact, they can make a significant impact on how quickly cases can spread even when we are far below herd immunity. We looked at several models of vaccination in our new Forward Dane plan PDF (https://publichealthmdc.com/documents/2021-03-02_forward_dane.pdf) that all pointed to a very hopeful situation in spring and summer. There won't be a single day where we all emerge from our homes to celebrate the end of COVID-19; instead, we're going to be slowly ramping up our progress back to "normal" life as levels of immunity rise.

We still need to wear masks, socially distance, and limit gatherings. We know we still have a ways to go, which is why we still have orders asking everyone to wear a mask, socially distance, and limit the size of gatherings and activities. While we are in the transition period from pandemic to herd immunity, it's still essential that we follow prevention methods to limit the spread of COVID-19.

Vaccines are our way out of this pandemic. We changed our entire way of thinking about responding to the pandemic once vaccines began to be administered to people. Masks, distancing, and gathering limits kept us safe and kept us going before we had a long-term solution. Now that we are starting to have long-term solutions through vaccines, we are starting to shift the balance between restrictions and the reality of immunity.
