Library Activity Report
Erick Plumb
November 2017

- Our Capital Campaign continues to roll along. As of November 2, we’ve raised $1,128,548 towards our $1,500,000 campaign goal. Only $371,452 to go! We will be launching the public phase of the Capital Campaign on Wednesday, November 15 at 11:30 at the Library. We have also launched the 100 Women of Waunakee initiative as part of the capital campaign, asking 100 women in the area to pledge donations of $1,000 or more each, a strategy that has met with success with other campaigns in other communities. We held a kick-off event on November 2 at the Lone Girl that energized the fifty or so people that attended.

- For the first time in memory, the Library now offers notary services for the community. Our new librarian, Courtney Cosgriff, is now registered as a notary in the state of Wisconsin.

- Work on clearing the new library continues. It has been dramatic watching the site transformation, especially coupled with the other demolition project a block away on Madison and Main.

Unfortunately, when clearing the site, engineers found PCBs in much of the concrete on the site, such as the structural foundations of the old buildings, etc. That’s bad news for two reasons: first, PCBs in general are no good; second, the original plan was to crush the concrete and recycle it, either on-site or somewhere else. PCB contamination means that the concrete has to be specially hauled to a landfill that handles such things (in Michigan or Alabama in this case). Long story short: having to haul away instead of crushing the concrete causes a $287,000 increase in demolition and site remediation costs – costs that aren’t in the project budget. The Village Board voted in a special meeting on October 30 to approve a $287,000 change order. Hopefully a grant of some kind can be found to off-set some of these additional costs.

- The Library staff and Board have had discussions in recent months about whether or not to include an RFID sorter in the bookdrops in the new building. These machines check in materials automatically when returned and “sort” the returned items into categorized bins – i.e children’s materials, non-fiction, fiction, etc. The space has been designed to accommodate this technology. The technology is about a decade old and has been implemented in many area libraries, including my previous library, Monona, in 2013. While being widely adopted, it is fair to say that the technology is not without significant flaws, namely software bugginess, equipment unreliability, speed of item returns, and, most of all, cost. New systems generally cost north of $100,000 to install and require replacement every 8-10 years.

The Madison Public Library has been discussing whether or not to install an RFID sorter in their new Pinney branch on the east side when it opens in 2019-20. They conducted a time study at the Sun Prairie Public Library, a library that has a sorter, where they ran timed exercises of item check-ins, comparing the speed of staff versus the sorter. Our own circulation supervisor, Emily Harkins, participated in the study with Madison and Sun Prairie staff. After the study, Madison has concluded that they will not include a sorter at this time. (I’ll include the study text in a future packet when it is fully completed.) Based on those discussions, staff sentiment, my own mixed-results with the tech at Monona, and cost concerns, I recommend that we do not pursue an RFID sorter for 2019’s opening. The space can accommodate the technology in the future.
when reliability improves and costs come down. The $150,000 in the preliminary project budget allocated to the sorter could be better used for other necessities and amenities.

Youth Services Report by Brittany
I was able to attend two courses for continuing education this month. The first was a pre-conference for WLA titled “Diversity in Youth Services.” It provided much insight on how to be more inclusive in our programming, selection and displays. Attendees were also given a helpful resource list containing many great websites/blogs that share ways to create more diverse programs and collections. The second course was a day-long class through UW-Madison called “Leading & Managing from the Middle.” This course primarily focused on being a leader within your organization and ways to effectively support all employees around you. Helpful strategies for how to best collaborate, represent and achieve goals were presented. I think it will be helpful as we move towards operating in a new building and work to embrace all the changes that will inevitably come our way. Programs within the department mostly followed our monthly schedule with the addition of a re-vamped Saturday Discovery Day planned by Cindy. She prepared a lot of great fall-themed activities and had a good crowd for the first time. She plans to continue to offer this about every other month. We also welcomed this year’s second graders from Heritage into the library for their first field trip of the year. They were able to correctly answer a series of library quiz questions and were treated to seeing their teachers and I dressed in funny costumes. They also explored the library and checked out books to take back to their classrooms. This has proved to be an excellent way of teaching kids about the library and getting them excited about books and reading.

Adult Services Report by Courtney
In October, I hosted/booked two programs that drew an excited crowd. Don Spencer’s Art Glass program included a showing of his tools, some works, and his art process. Patrons were interested and asked a lot of questions. Wisconsin Ghosts and the Afterlife drew a crowd of almost 70 and included an informational and fun presentation. I booked my training for Music & Memory certification in November. I booked three programs for November including Time to Downsize, Zero Waste 101, and a cardmaking program. I joined the Village’s Safety Committee and our first meeting is in November. I was also asked to be a part of a communication mini-series through the Village. I became a Notary Public and will now be able to help patrons notarize documents at no charge. We had a STEM day (scheduled for April 21) planning meeting and I started to reach out to community organizations to gauge interest. I also attended WLA for the first time.

Courtney’s WLA Report:

Keynote Address: Librarians of the Galaxy: Recharge!

Grace Lim of UW-Oshkosh discussed the importance of librarians telling their story to find ways to connect with your community. She also discussed how important it is to show your library’s worth by displays, investment calculators, and other ways that show what the library provides that the community might not normally think of.
Caregiver Kits: Resources for People Caring for Someone with Memory Loss

I decided to go to this program because WPL will soon become part of the Music & Memory program. If our M&M program is successful, it may make sense to offer more resources for this part of the community. This program talked about creating kits with various items that stimulate all sense for people with memory loss. The library partnered with ADRC (Aging & Disability Resource Center) and found most of their items for their kits at Enasco.com.

You’re Not Bothering the Patrons

This program came up with a few ways to reach patrons that librarians may not have thought of. They suggested using Canva to create more attractive posters and using websites like Evensi (local event calendar) and Nextdoor (like Facebook for neighbors) to post library programs on. They also discussed the importance of creating a “targeted audience” newsletter.

Revolutionary Ideas: Fan days, Cons, & Large Scale Interactive Programs

This program talked about putting on large scale all-day programs. The fairs that were discussed were a Star Wars Read Day, Hogworts Summer School, An Afternoon with Austen, a Comic-con, and their largest event, a Hamil-Con. They talked about the planning for these events, the various partners, and how you should be sure of demand first before planning something so large and possible, expensive. I thought this would be a good program to go to because in the new library there would be plenty of spaces (and nooks and crannies) to host passive programming that could equate to a large “con” like event.

Civility Speaks

This was probably the best program I went to. The presenters (from a Milwaukee suburb) discussed a program called Civility Speaks. Every month a new presenter would come in on a hot topic (these ranged from transgender youth to GMOs to climate change). The expert in the field would speak and then moderate a discussion of small groups. They found that groups of 3-4 work much better than the entire group. This program emerged out of a desire for non-emotional, civil discourse during election time. I think this program would be great for Waunakee (perhaps quarterly) as the library should be at the center of community discourse and engagement. After discussing with the other adult programmers, we are going to start some form of this in 2018.

Community Collaborations

This program was very informational and gave several suggestions for community partners that may be overlooked sometimes. The first suggestion they gave was to find experts in staff/patrons. These may be hard to vet and prove who is really an “expert,” but if done properly it can be a great resource. Other suggestions for programs were small business owners, arts clubs, TED Talk-like programming (similar to Civility Speaks), Local Author Showcases, and finding programs through granting agencies. They shared their success stories and problems programmers may encounter when reaching out into the community.

Waunakee Public Library
Privacy of Library Records and Library Use DRAFT

The Waunakee Public Library protects the privacy of library records and the confidentiality of patron use of the library as required by relevant laws. In addition, the Waunakee Public Library Board supports the principle of freedom of inquiry for library patrons, and has adopted this policy to protect against the unwarranted invasion of the personal privacy of library users.

Legal requirements

The relevant Wisconsin laws concerning the confidentiality of library records are Wisconsin Statutes Section 43.30 and the Wisconsin Personal Information Practices Act (Sections 19.62 to 19.80).

Under Section 43.30, library records which indicate the identity of any individual who borrows or uses the library's documents or other materials, resources or services may only be disclosed:

1. with the consent of the individual library user, or
2. by court order, or
3. to custodial parents or guardians of children under the age of 16, or
4. to persons acting within the scope of their duties in the administration of the library or library system, or
5. to other libraries (under certain circumstances) for interlibrary loan purposes [see ss. 43.30(2) and (3)].

Wisconsin’s Personal Information Practices Act (Sections 19.62 to 19.80) requires all state and local government organizations (including public libraries) to develop procedures to protect the privacy of personal information kept by the organization. Libraries (and all other government organizations) are required to develop rules of conduct for employees involved in collecting, maintaining, using, and providing access to personally identifiable information. Libraries are also required to ensure that employees handling such records "know their duties and responsibilities relating to protecting personal privacy, including applicable state and federal laws."

Records indicating the identity of library users include a library users name, physical image, library card number, social security number, telephone number, street address, post-office box number or 9-digit extended zip code.

Records held by the library that include personally identifiable information about library users may also contain information that must be provided to those who request that information, as required by Wisconsin’s public records law. Personally identifiable information about library users must be redacted from any records that are publicly disclosed, except as the records are disclosed under one of the four exceptions provided by Section 43.30 (see above).

Rules to be followed by library staff

(1) As required by state law, library staff may only disclose library records indicating the identity of library users under the following conditions:
   a) disclosure to staff members of the Waunakee Public Library, and the staff of other libraries and library systems only according to written procedures that comply with the laws cited above and that are approved by the director
   b) disclosure as authorized by the individual library user
   c) disclosure to custodial parents or guardians of children under the age of 16 [ss. 43.30(4)] (see below for handling of requests from custodial parents or guardians)
   d) disclosure pursuant to court order (see below for handling of different types of court orders)
e) if someone's life or safety is at risk, library records may be released to appropriate individuals or officials without a court order.

2) Library staff must refer all requests for library records and all requests for information about particular library users to the library director or the library director's designee.

3) Library staff is not allowed to share information about use of library resources and services by identified library patrons except as necessary for the performance of their job duties and in accordance with procedures approved by the library director and/or board.

Handling requests from custodial parents or guardians of children under the age of 16
Requestor must be the child's "custodial parent," defined as any parent other than a parent who has been denied periods of physical placement with a child under s 767.24(4). The Library staff will:

1) request identification
2) if the requestor is the parent or guardian listed on the child's library record and the requestor resides at the same address, the staff may provide the requested information; otherwise the staff will
3) obtain a completed and signed "Request for Access to Child's Library Record" form to help ensure that the requestor is indeed the child's custodial parent or guardian and that the requestor has not been denied periods of physical placement with the child under s 767.24(4).
4) The staff may then grant the request or refer the request to the Library Director or designee.

The Library staff will attempt to satisfy the request as soon as practicable and without unreasonable delay. In most cases this will be at the time of the request. If there is a question of the requestee's guardianship, the staff person may delay the request until review by the Library Director and/or Library Board. If a request is denied by the Library staff, the requester can appeal in writing to the Library Board.

Normal photocopy/printing charges will be assessed to the requester for copies of records provided.

Handling of court orders
[Note: All search warrants are court orders, but not all subpoenas are court orders. Library staff may not disclose library records in response to a subpoena that is not a court order if those records indicate the identity of library users.]

If a law enforcement officer (or anyone else) brings a subpoena directing library staff to produce library records:

1) Notify the library director, or if the director is not available, notify the highest-ranking staff person on duty.
2) The library director or the highest-ranking staff person should ask the municipal attorney (or library counsel) to review the subpoena.
3) If the subpoena has any legal defects, require that the defects be cured before records are released.
4) If appropriate, ask legal counsel to draft a protective order to be submitted to the court keeping the requested information confidential and limiting its use to the particular case.
5) Follow legal counsel's advice for compliance with the subpoena.

If law enforcement officers bring a court order in the form of a search warrant:

1) A search warrant is executable immediately, unlike a subpoena. The law enforcement officers may begin a search of library records as soon as they enter the library.

1 The Attorney General's office opined, in a response dated November 27, 2006 to questions submitted by State Superintendent Elizabeth Barmaster, that "...if someone's life or safety is at risk, for example, if there was a child abduction at the library, the law would not require the police to obtain a court order before being allowed to view any relevant [surveillance] tapes."

2 A subpoena is a call to come before a court, and may include a direction to bring specified records. Not all subpoenas are court orders. Your municipal attorney (or library counsel) can determine if a particular subpoena is a court order. A subpoena normally indicates that a response is required within a certain number of days. Library staff may not disclose library records in response to a subpoena that is not a court order if those records indicate the identity of library users.

3 A search warrant is an order signed by a judge directing a law enforcement officer to conduct a search of a designated person, a designated object or a designated place for the purpose of seizing designated property or kinds of property.
(2) Request that the law enforcement officers wait until the municipal attorney (or library counsel) is present before the search begins in order to allow counsel an opportunity to examine the search warrant and to assure that the search conforms to the terms of the search warrant. (The law enforcement officials are not required to accede to your request to delay the search.)

(3) Cooperate with the search to ensure that only the records identified in the warrant are produced and that no other users’ records are disclosed.

If FBI agents bring a court order in the form of a search warrant issued under the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA)⁴:

(1) A search warrant is executable immediately, unlike a subpoena. The law enforcement officers may begin a search of library records as soon as they enter the library.

(2) Request that the law enforcement officers wait until the municipal attorney (or library counsel) is present before the search begins in order to allow counsel an opportunity to examine the search warrant and to assure that the search conforms to the terms of the search warrant. (The law enforcement officials are not required to accede to your request.)

(3) Cooperate with the search to ensure that only the records identified in the warrant are produced and that no other users’ records are disclosed.

(4) It is illegal to disclose to any other person (other than those persons necessary to produce the tangible things sought in the warrant) that the Federal Bureau of Investigation has sought or obtained records or other items under the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA).

⁴ The USA Patriot Act amended the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA) to allow the FBI to apply for a court order requiring the "production of any tangible things (including books, records, papers, documents and other items) for an investigation to protect against international terrorism or clandestine intelligence activities, provided that such investigation of a United States person is not conducted solely upon the basis of activities protected by the first amendment."
